

I am a Girl Scout Leader

...because leadership is not only what I do, it's what I teach.

...because I've learned more from these young girls than I ever thought possible.

...because traveling with a buddy is not only safe, but fun.

...because magic happens around a campfire or in a Brownie Ring.

...because showing girls how to support and care for one another helps them in this world of too much condemnation and criticism.

...because performing community service makes our world a kinder place to live.

...because I like to sing silly songs, even if I am occasionally off key!

...because working in a team is much more fun than working alone.

...because I've learned there's no such thing as failure, only opportunities to make the best of any situation.

...because I like to watch girls accomplish things they never dreamed of doing.

...because I'm never going to be too old to try new things.

...because sharing dreams for the future while holding hands under the stars is unforgettable.

...because there's no substitute for making good friends.

...because a smile on a shy girl's face is worth a thousand thank you's.

...because soft whispering amidst the sound of crickets in the night is one of the sweetest memories a girl can keep.

...because watching girls grow from giggling Daisies to mature young women is an irreplaceable experience.

...because strong girls grow into strong women capable of handling whatever life brings.

It's sometimes difficult being a leader, but I know that whatever the cost, it's worth it to help Juliette's dream come true...
